

CLIMATIC SUITABILITY TRENDS. The left panel shows the per-cell Theil-Sen trend in climatic suitability across the modeled extent over the study period. Green indicates increasing suitability; red indicates decreasing suitability. The right panel shows the trend in the rate of suitability change over the same period, identifying areas where change is accelerating or decelerating. The black outline delineates the USGS GAP range boundary for the species.